DETAILED ACTIONDrawings

The drawings are objected to because Figures 6-26 are too dark and cannot be read. Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-2, 4-6, 11-18, 20-22 and 27-32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over www.bellagio.com (Bellagio) in view of www.westwardho.com (Westward Ho).

Examiner notes the use of "The WayBack Machine" at www.archive.org in prosecuting this Application. The Internet Archive is a comprehensive library of Internet sites and other cultural artifacts in digital form. The Wayback Machine is a free service allowing people to access and use archived versions of past web pages within the Internet Archive. Visitors to the Wayback Machine can type in a URL, select a date range, and then will be able to search and view the Internet Archive's enormous collection of web sites, dating back to 1996 and comprising over 10 billion web pages. Examiner notes that the www.bellagio.com site used in this rejection was archived on Nov. 29, 2001 and the www.westwardho.com site was archived on May 5, 2001.

Bellagio teaches an Internet reservation site on one screen with three subsection. The first is a calendar section, the second is an inventory information section and the third a reservation information section. Bellagio allows a user to select consecutive dates from the calendar section and then automatically updates the information in the inventory information section (e.g. shows a listing of which type of room is available on the date(s) selected in the calendar section).

Examiner notes that the site allows the user to complete the reservation for the room for the selected dates. Bellagio further allows the user to view a picture of the room in the inventory information section. Bellagio further teaches a visual representation of a calendar in the calendar section, which includes a current month and a subsequent month. Ballgio also teaches a plurality of rooms and an availability of the plurality of rooms. The reservation information section of Bellagio teaches a reservation summary (as required by claim 14). Finally Bellagio teaches a link to information outside the single window.

Bellagio does not teach updating the calendar section upon selection of a room in the inventory information section.

Westward Ho teaches a hotel reservation system with a calendar section and an inventory information section. Upon selection of a particular room in the inventory information section the calendar section is automatically updated with availability information.

It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the reservation system of Bellagio in order to include the ability to update the calendar section when a user selects a particular room in the inventory information section as taught by Westward Ho. One of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to combine the references as taught in order to provide a user with as much information as possible when booking a room.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 10/3/05 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant asserts that the prior art combination fails to teach displaying in a single window data in a calendar section . . . an inventory information section . . . and a reservation information section configured to receive payment information input by a user . . .”

Examiner respectfully disagrees. First the Bellagio reference clearly teaches the calendar section, inventory information section and the reservation section all in one window (see page 3 or 3). Additionally, Examiner notes that the entry of a "promo or group code" constitutes payment information as it clearly impacts and relates to payment by the user.
